INTELEMAGE ACQUIRED BY MEDIDATA

Intelemage, a global pioneer in medical image sharing and workflow management, has been acquired by Medidata (NASDAQ:MDSO), the leading global provider of cloud-based solutions for clinical research in life sciences. Medidata plans to integrate Intelemage's technology into the Medidata Clinical Cloud®, its industry-leading SaaS platform. This will offer customers an end-to-end solution to capture, manage, and analyze medical imaging data. Provident Healthcare Partners served as exclusive financial advisor to Intelemage. The terms of the transaction were not disclosed.

"We were extremely happy with Provident's support on this transaction. The Provident team provided professional, creative, and timely input through-out the process. They found the right buyer and they contributed significantly as we worked with the buyer as we negotiated mutually beneficial deal terms," noted Michael O'Brien, Chief Executive Officer of Intelemage.

"Intelemage's proven global general image transfer solution provides unsurpassed reliability, speed, security, and compliance in general medical image sharing services at the industry's lowest cost. Combined with the robust platform Medidata has in place with the Medidata Clinical Cloud, customers will experience improved efficiency and speed," commented Kevin Palamara, Managing Director at Provident Healthcare Partners.
