Provident Healthcare Partners Advises Lowcountry Oncology Associates in its Partnership with OneOncology

Provident Healthcare Partners (“Provident”), a leading healthcare investment banking firm, announced it has advised Lowcountry Oncology Associates in its partnership with OneOncology. Lowcountry Oncology Associates is a comprehensive provider of hematology and medical oncology services based in Charleston, South Carolina.

Provident’s deal team was led by Director Dustin Thompson.

“The Provident team was instrumental in helping our practice return to caring for patients as an independent practice. Their insight into our value as a practice aided in aligning us with OneOncology, as a strategic partner. With expertise, Provident evaluated our options and navigated us through the entire process, allowing us to make an informed decision. We are excited about our future with OneOncology and appreciate the guidance from Provident that helped make this partnership a reality,” commented Dr. Matthew Beldner, Physician Partner at Lowcountry Oncology Associates.

“We are excited to have guided Lowcountry Oncology Associates through this process. The physicians’ reputation in Charleston will provide a strong addition to OneOncology’s expansion in South Carolina,” commented Thompson.
