Provident Healthcare Partners Advises Hudson Valley Cancer Center in its Partnership with New York Cancer & Blood Specialists

Provident Healthcare Partners (“Provident”), a leading healthcare investment banking firm, announced it has advised Hudson Valley Cancer Center (“HVCC”) in its partnership with New York Cancer & Blood Specialists (“NYCBS”). Hudson Valley Cancer Center is a respected oncology and hematology practice with five physicians who care for patients at three locations in the Hudson Valley.

Provident’s deal team was led by Director Dustin Thompson and Vice President Tommy Spiegel. Husch Blackwell served as legal counsel to HVCC.

“It was a pleasure working with the Provident team and we are thrilled with our new partnership with OneOncology and their partner practice, New York Cancer and Blood Specialists. Provident spent time to thoroughly understand our business, objectives, and worked diligently to provide multiple options and find a right partner who has a shared vision for the future of oncology. We were very impressed with their knowledge and assistance throughout the process,” commented Dr. Ram R. Kancherla, Managing Partner at Hudson Valley Cancer Center.

“HVCC saw that NYCBS was the right partner for their mission to bring patient care closer to family and friends as they look forward to expansion in the Hudson Valley Region,” stated Thompson.

“We are thrilled to have played a pivotal role in facilitating the partnership between Hudson Valley Cancer Center and NYCBS. This strategic transaction underscores the robust growth potential within the oncology sector and highlights our commitment to driving value through innovative partnerships,” noted Spiegel.
