Provident Healthcare Partners Advises Peachtree BioResearch Solutions in its Partnership with Julius Clinical

Boston, MA – May 19, 2025 – Provident Healthcare Partners (“Provident”), a leading healthcare investment banking firm, is pleased to announce it has advised Peachtree BioResearch Solutions (“Peachtree”), a U.S.-based, CNS-focused clinical research organization (“CRO”), in its strategic merger with Julius Clinical, a Netherlands-based full-service CRO and portfolio company of Ampersand Capital Partners. The merger creates a fully integrated, global clinical research organization with expanded capabilities across central nervous system (“CNS”), cardio-metabolic, renal, and rare diseases.

This transaction marks a significant milestone in Peachtree’s evolution and reflects the deep alignment between both companies’ cultures, scientific depth, and operational expertise. Together, the combined organization offers end-to-end Phase I-III clinical trial services across North America and Europe, with a robust footprint to better serve pharmaceutical, biotech, and medical device clients.

“This partnership with Julius Clinical is a tremendous outcome for Peachtree and a reflection of the incredible work our team has done over the years. Provident was instrumental throughout this process. Their deep understanding of the CRO landscape, strategic guidance, and steady partnership helped us navigate the complexities and ultimately align with the right long-term partner,” commented Kristy Nichols, Chief Executive Officer at Peachtree.

“Peachtree’s differentiated positioning in CNS research, coupled with its strong leadership and operational foundation, made this an incredibly compelling opportunity for a global partner like Julius Clinical. The alignment between both teams was clear from the outset, and we are proud to have advised Peachtree through this important milestone in their growth journey,” stated Dustin Thompson, Director at Provident.

The merger enables the combined CRO to address the growing demand for specialized, cross-border clinical research partners with the flexibility and scale to support both emerging biotech and mid-sized pharmaceutical programs.

“It was a privilege to work alongside the Peachtree team in a transaction that not only enhances their global reach but also strengthens their ability to serve clients with increasingly complex clinical programs,” commented Tommy Spiegel, Vice President at Provident. “This partnership creates a well-balanced CRO platform with the scale and specialization needed in today’s evolving research landscape.”
