Provident Healthcare Partners Advises GW Cancer Center on its Partnership with Maryland Oncology Hematology

Provident Healthcare Partners (“Provident”), a leading healthcare investment banking firm, announced it has advised GW Cancer Center (“GWCC”) in its partnership with Maryland Oncology Hematology (“MOH”), an affiliate practice of The US Oncology Network (“USON”). GWCC’s eight medical oncologists provide comprehensive, patient-centered care to patients in downtown Washington, D.C. and its surrounding communities.

Provident’s deal team was led by Managing Director Dustin Thompson and Vice President Tommy Spiegel. Husch Blackwell LLP served as legal counsel to GWCC.

“GWCC’s transition to MOH represents an important step in preserving continuity of care for oncology patients during a period of significant organizational change,” said Thompson. “Joining MOH and the broader USON provides GWCC’s physicians and staff a stable, long-term home while allowing patients to continue receiving high-quality cancer care from the team they know and trust.”
